PREFACE

A SURVEY of market prices for rare books and autographs for the past auction season is of peculiar interest, is indeed essential for arriving at average valuations. It reveals the status of literary material at a period which, it is hoped, marks the depth of depressed markets and thus provides figures which, used in comparison with those of the past few years, will afford excellent opportunity for an estimate of mean values.

Aside, however, from certain conditions which, undoubtedly, reflect the general business situation, the auction market for literary material during 1931-1932 was by no means altogether low and to those engaged actively in its progress, the record of the year is found representative and offers the guidance necessary for up-to-date valuations, note being made, of course, of varying physical conditions of volumes bringing varying prices. On the whole, general financial conditions have militated against the auction market rather in the withholding of material in quantity than in the total withdrawal of desirable items from public sale or in the reduction of prices paid for fine copies. We find these items still in the market in fine, if not in numerous examples.

As usual, there have been opportunities for securing rarities and for securing bargains; and collectors find encouragement in the evidence that rare books and autographs, considered as investments alone, do not depreciate in the ratio of other securities. Good examples, if the owner must part with them, continue to find a ready market at good prices.

Although less in volume, the sales of 1931-32 in New York City alone realized a total sum far in excess of the returns for either of the two preceding years. The very large sums contributing to this local return were realized in the sale of the Lothian collection; but a number of works in other collections brought prices in advance, sometimes considerably in advance, of prices paid for corresponding copies in the previous five years, that is, since the year 1926. This span would seem to set a limit to the period of comparison having any practical bearing upon the present and the immediate future.

The sales of 1931-32 numbered 69 and showed two changes in the list of auction houses, the withdrawal of the Union Square Book Shop and the appearance of the National Art Galleries, Inc.

The outstanding events of the season occurred in the sales of two consignments from England, the first, Selections from the Libraries of the Marquess of Lothian—mentioned more fully below—the other, a single item, one of the two fully signed copies known to be in existence of the "Olive Branch" Petition of the Second Continental Congress which was presented to King George III in 1775 as a final effort to avert the War of the Revolution. This document was sold at $53000, a sum greater by $2000 than that paid for a manuscript in an American auction in any previous season. The letter bearing the signature of Button Gwinnett, with the signatures of Hancock, Morris, Lewis, Read, and Middleton, sold in 1927 for $51000, had held the record to date.

Collections sold in October, 1931 included the Library of Americana of the late George W. Riggs which produced a 1775-76 run of the Pennsylvania Journal and Weekly Advertiser at $925, Nuñez Cabeza de Vaca's Relacion [1555], at $410, and manuscript Indian treaties at $650, $750, and $1450.

The Library of William H. MacAfee, consisting mainly of Nineteenth and Twentieth Century English Literature, included works of Gilbert A'Beckett, Jane Austen, Byron, Cowper, Scott, Thackeray, and Wordsworth, which brought their highest market prices except for the prices realized in the Kern sale of 1920.

Sporting Books and First Editions from the Library of the late Gifford A. Cochran, with matter of great autograph and association interest from other owners, included Real Life in London, 1821-22, and Egan's Life of an Actor, 1825, each in original parts, selling at $320 and $350. The 1620 English version of Boccaccio sold at $1525, and Paradise lost, 1667, with Paradise Regain'd, 1671, at $1300. Presentation copies of various works by Hawthorne brought $525, $1300, and $2200. A copy of Irving's Life of Washington, 1855-59, extended by the insertion of autographs and illustrations, sold for $4250. The Boswell papers in the Isham collection as published to 1931 made an appearance in this consignment, selling at $400. The autograph material included Orderly Books of Sir William Howe for the years 1776 and 1777, which sold for $1400.

Among autographs in the collection of the late Thomas B. Clarke, a letter of Gilbert Stuart was sold at $420, a letter signed, in 1776, by Franklin, Carroll and Chase, as commissioners to Canada, at $1300. A letter of 1861 by President Lincoln to the Governor of Kentucky, declining to remove Union troops from that state, sold for $1550, and a copy of the Thirteenth Amendment to the Constitution, signed, in 1865, by Lincoln and by all of its sponsors in Congress, sold for $8000.

In the sale of the Library of an Ohio collector, a copy of Great Expectations, 1861, brought $550; one of the copies of F. R. Martin's History of Oriental Carpets, Vienna, 1908, with plates printed on silk, brought $425; and a complete set of the folio works of John Gould, 1831-88, $2600.

Other sales produced a copy of A True Declaration of the estate of the Colonie in Virginia, 1610, which sold at $850; Mason's Brief History of the Pequot War, 1736, at $675; a copy of the English Bible printed by Aitken at Philadelphia in 1782, at $525; Cooper's Spy, 1821, at $770; Hawthorne's Peter Parley's Universal History, 1837, at $845; the New York, 1866 issue of Alice in Wonderland, at $300; Longfellow's Evangeline, 1847, at $1150; and a copy of the catalogue of the Ashley Library as published to 1930, at $440.

Manuscript Americana of the season included, among early English deeds, one bearing the signature of the Puritan colonist, Richard Gardiner, which sold for $1000 and, among early orderly books and journals of historic interest, the record kept at the headquarters of General Woodford in 1777, which sold at $460. A letter of Roger Williams to Gov. Winthrop, in 1640, in relation to the Indians of Rhode Island, brought $4000, a 1629 letter of Gov. Winthrop, $1000. Official notification to Arthur Lee of his appointment as Commissioner to France, in a letter of Oct. 23, 1776, signed by Franklin and Morris, brought $610. A plan of July 13, 1781 written out in General Washington's hand, "For Reconnoitering the Enemy's Posts at the North end of York Island and the vicinity of it," was sold for $1950. A Mexican War letter of Zachary Taylor sold at $385. A journal kept by Benjamin Van Cleve, 1778-1803, covering much of the history of the settlement of the Ohio Valley, sold at $410, an 1849 overland diary of Simon Doyle, at $480.

Consignment of the Lothian collection to the American market, made at the protest of the London public and press, brought to the owner justification of choice, the 168 items of the collection realizing $410,545, a sum considerably in excess of his expectation. The material included certain world-famed manuscripts and 133 printed books comprising incunabula, publications of the sixteenth century and early Americana. Among the 35 manuscripts of the sale, two romances in fourteenth century hands, Le Roman de la Rose and the copy of the Floriant et Florete from which the edition of the Roxburghe Club was printed (Edinburgh, 1873) brought, respectively, $1000 and $1050; Sir Walter Scott's manuscript of The Eve of Saint John brought $1600. Three fifteenth century Books of Hours realized $1400, $4300, and $4500, two copies of the Bible in Latin, in thirteenth century hands, $700 and $1400, and a copy written in the twelfth century, $7000. Handsomely bound manuscripts of the sixteenth century included a volume of Medical Recipes bound, probably, by Clovis Eve, which sold at $1100; a volume on the lives of Scipio, Hannibal, Pompey, and Cicero, in French prose, bound for Diane de Poitiers, at $2250, and a poem by Bernardino Manetti, in Italian, on Catherine de Medici and bound for her, at $5750. Fifteenth century copies of French translations of Livy, Boccaccio, and Saint Augustine, sold at $9000, $18000, and $31500. The "Blickling" Homilies, in Anglo-Saxon, of the year 971, brought $55000; the eighth century "Lincoln" Psalter, written entirely in uncial letters, $23000; and the Tikytt Psalter, of about 1310, $61000.

The Lothian incunabula sales included the Augsburg, 1470 edition of Josephus, in Latin, at $600; the Nuremberg Chronicle (Schedel), bound with Durer's (?) Apocalypse, at $950; the Aldine, 1499 Hypnerotomachia Poliphili of Columna, at $1550; the Jenson, 1470 De euangelica of Eusebius, at $2100; Bien advise, mal advise, on vellum, at $3000; Pliny's Naturalis Historia, Venice, Spira, 1469, at $3100; the Caxton, 1480 Chronicles of England and the Description of Britain, in one volume, at $7000; these Chronicles, as printed by Machlinia in 1486, at $1200; Kay's translation of Caorsin's Siege of Rhodes, London, about 1482, at $7250; the Maintz, 1462 Bible, at $19000; a Paris, 1493 Boccaccio, in French, in a Diane de Poitiers binding, at $9400 and Colard Mansion's Bruges, 1476 Boccaccio, in French, at $45,000.

Among sixteenth century books, Pynson's 1516 printing of Fabyan's Newe Chronycles of England and of Fraunce brought $725; a French Book of Hours, $1000; Gassar's Epitome, Lugdini [1538], in a mosaic Maioli binding, $1200; the 1535 Coverdale translation of the Bible, $3700; and "Cest la Deduction," etc., a work in celebration of Henri II and Catherine de Medici, $4000.

Early Americana and books on travel in the Lothian collection consisted of 79 items, among them Jourdain's Plaine Description of the Barmvdas, 1613, which realized $700; Hagthorpe's Englands-Exchequer, 1625, $725; A Perfect Description of Virginia, 1649, $750; Barlow's Navigators Svpply, 1597, $800; Middleton's Sir Robert Sherley, 1609, $800; Thevet's New found worlde, in Hacket's translation [1568], $900; Winslow's New-Englandes Salamander, 1647, $900; Captain John Smith's Accidence for the Sea, 1636, $1350, the later edition (1653), entitled The Sea-mans Grammar, $650; Smith's Trve Relation of . . . occurrences . . . in Virginia, 1608, $3750; the first, the "Colonie" edition (1620), of A Declaration of the State of the Colonie . . . in Virginia, $1400; Les Voyages of Champlain, Paris, 1613, $2100; Nicholl's Houre Glasse of Indian Newes, 1607, $2250; Underhill's Newes from America, 1638, $2500; Sir George Peckham's Trve Reporte of the late Discoveries . . . by . . . Sir Humfrey Gilbert, 1583, $3250; Hakluyt's Principal Navigations, 1598-99-1600, with the Molineaux-Wright map, $3500; The Travels of Marco Polo, Frampton's translation, 1579, $4250; Rosier's Trve Relation of the . . . Discouery of . . . Virginia, 1605, $4500; and Best's Trve Discovrse of Frobisher's voyages, 1578, $7250.

The dispersal of the Lothian Americana was followed, in the same evening, by the offering of the related document mentioned above as comprising a formal sale in itself, the "'Olive Branch' Petition" of Congress to King George III.

As this volume may come into the hands of some persons not familiar with the publication, the following explanation of its scheme is reprinted from earlier issues.

The name of the author, or the main heading, is set in bold-face capitals. As a rule, Club and Press publications are listed under the name of the club or press in question; and a few other books, such as anonymous histories and biographies, are given subject entries.

The titles of various works under these main entries are printed in bold-face type, capitals and lower case. The subsequent matter, the description, printed in light-face type, is in two portions, the first, including the imprint—place, printer, date—and size of volume, is general and applies to all copies of the work listed.

The second portion of the description, applying specifically to the copy of the book sold (each lot beginning a new line), is made up as follows: (1) a description of the binding; (2) a statement as to the condition of this copy—if on large paper, with extra plates inserted, from a famous library, etc.; (3) capital (key) letter, referring to the Chronological List of Sales at the beginning of this volume and indicating the name and date of the sale; (4) the lot number of the sale catalogue; (5) the price realized, that is, the price per lot and not per volume.

FRESH ADVICES FROM CANADA. Norwich, Nov. 28.

Captain Jeremiah Halsey, who arrived here Yesterday, Express from Canada, to his Honour Governor Trumbull, has favoured us with the following very agreeable Intelligence, viz. That on the Night of the 12th Instant., Gen. Carleton . . . robbed the Merchants of what Quantities of Powder they were in possession of, shipped it and all the small arms on board the Transports and armed Vessels; and, with about 100 Soldiers, and as many Canadian Tories as were inclined to go, embarked and abandoned the City of Montreal.—That on Monday the 13th, the Inhabitants . . . opened the Gates and gave Possession to our Forces, etc. [Broadside.] n.p., n.d. [1775]. 8vo.

Byron (George Gordon, Lord). A. L. S., 5 pp., 4to. 8, St. James Street, March 10, 1809. To W. Harness. Address on last page, with franking signature. Sends a copy of “English Bards and Scotch Reviewers,” and underlines these words: “. . . I send down by this post a certain Satire lately published and in return for the three & sixpence expenditure upon it, only beg that if you should guess the author, you will keep his name secret, at least for the present.” Continues: “I am glad to hear you like Cambridge. . . . Alma mater was to me ‘injuncta Noverca’ and the old Beldam only gave me my M.A. degree because she could not avoid it, you know what a farce a noble Cantab must perform. I am going abroad if possible in the spring, and before I depart I am collecting the pictures of my most intimate Schoolfellows. I have already a few, and shall want yours. . . . I have employed one of the first miniature painters of the day to take them, of course at my own expense as I never allow any acquaintance to incur the least expenditure to gratify a whim of mine. . . . I shall see you in town and will carry you to the Limner, it will be a tax on your patience for a week but pray endure [?] it, as it is possible the resemblance may be the sole token I shall be able to preserve of our past friendship & present acquaintance.

Just now it seems foolish enough, but in a few years when some of us are dust and others are separated by inevitable circumstances, it will be a kind of satisfaction to retrace in these images of the living the idea of our former selves, and to contemplate in the resemblances of the dead all that remains of judgement, feeling, and a host of passions. . . . Restoration from damage made by seal affecting a few words. In cl. case. O(58)$475.00.

- A. L. S. (initials), 2 pp., 12mo. n.p., Jan. 10, 1823. To Leigh Hunt. Offering "The Age of Bronze" for "The Liberal": ". . . a poem of about seven hundred and fifty lines . . . calculated for the reading part of the Million, being all on politics, &c., &c., &c., and a review of the day in general—in my Early English Bards style—but a little more stilted and somewhat too full of 'epithets of war' and classical & historical allusions. If notes are necessary they can be added. . . . It is in the heroic couplet measure—which is 'an old friend with a new face,' etc. JK(73)$225.00.

- A. L. S. "Noel Byron," 3 pp., 4to. Genoa, June 21, 1823. To E. Church, U. S. Consul at Geneva. Mentions a proposal to aid the Greeks, made by the Consul, and its submission to the Greek Committee, to which Byron had recently been elected, and adds: ". . . The accounts are so contradictory as to what mode will be best for supplying the Greeks that I deemed it better to take up (with the exception of a few supplies) what cash and credit I can muster, rather than lay them out on articles which might be deemed superfluous or unnecessary. . . . I am anxiously expecting further advice before I sail. . . . No apology was necessary for addressing yourself to me, especially on such a subject. An American has a better right than any other to suggest to other nations the modes of obtaining that Liberty which is the Glory of his own," etc. JK(74)$170.00.

Psalter in Latin. MS., Psalter, according to the Roman version, with occasional Gallican readings, on vellum, 88 leaves (12 x 9 in.), 24 lines to the page, several large initials and headlines; written in uncial letters, certainly in England and possibly at Canterbury, in the eighth century (leaves missing: Ps. I-IX, 9; IX, 30-XXXI, 3; XXXVI, 15-38; L, 20-LII, 6; XCIV, 6-CI, 9; CIX, 1-CXI, 4). Between the lines are Anglo-Saxon and Latin glosses, in several hands of the ninth and eleventh centuries (published by E. Brock as an appendix to the 1880 edition of the "Blickling Homilies," pp. 251-363) the earlier in red, the later in black. Bound before the Psalter (as described by Brock) is a 3-leaf calendar written in a fourteenth century hand. At the end of the book are 2 leaves, the first bearing, on its first page, extracts from the Gospels in Latin, the other leaf bearing names of several clerks of the City of Lincoln, England. In the fifteenth century a calendar was added at the beginning and a number of members of the Lincoln corporation from 1505 to 1635 have written their names on various pages.
